Handout (MODULE-1/2)

Aram and Mourad belonged to the family of Garoghlanian tribe which was very famous for their honesty for centuries. Aram was 9 years old and Mourad was 13. Mourad was a hyper active boy who was called crazy by the family members. He liked fun and adventure. The boys loved horses but unfortunately their family was too poor to buy a horse. One morning Mourad came to Aram's house and tapped his window. He asked him to come out. Then to his great surprise, Aram saw a big majestic white horse in front of him. When he asked his cousin about the horse, he refused to answer. The little boy could not believe that Mourad had stolen a horse because no family member could ever be a thief. The family always believed in doing right things. After sometime Mourad rode the horse alone and he made the horse to jump over the irrigation canal, ditches and Vineyard. But when his turn came the horse refused to allow Aram to ride. There was a big countryside behind their house.

Uncle khosrove was the craziest guy in the family. He was ferocious in nature, irritable. He never allowed anyone to speak. When his son who had run to him to inform that their house was on fire khosrove asked him to shut up. Mourad was considered as the natural descendant of the crazy uncle.
